1,250 TICKETS
SOLD HERE FOR
B. & O. OUTING*Special Train Provided Does
Not Nearly Accommodate
Crowd for Somerset.*MANY TRAVEL ON PASSES

More than 1,250 persons left Connellsville this morning for Edgewood park, Somerset, to attend the annual picnic of the Baltimore & Ohio Veterans Employees association. The special train which left here at 7:30 o'clock was loaded to its capacity.

The attendance was far beyond all expectations. The tickets were placed on sale yesterday morning at the local station and all day up until the departure of the trains this morning there was a constant demand for them. About 1,250 tickets were sold. However, this does not estimate the attendance as many of the employees of the railroad travel on passes.

The special train out of Connellsville was made up of 12 coaches and they did not nearly accommodate the crowd which thronged the station and platform. It was necessary to place six extra coaches to regular train No. 12, and those who were not able to get on this train were picked up by the special train out of Pittsburgh which also consisted of 12 well-filled coaches.

The engine of Connellsville was fully decorated with flags and bunting and the train was pulled by a locomotive which reflected like a mirror. The work was done by George F. Pritchard.

The one hauling the Pittsburgh train bore a large picture of President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, while a picture of C. W. Galloway, general manager, was conspicuously displayed on the engine attached to the Connellsville train.

In addition to the officials who were to speak at the gathering, others to be present were: Earl Stinson, chief engineer, maintenance; R. B. White, general superintendent, at Baltimore; C. W. Van Horn, superintendent at Connellsville; T. J. Brady, superintendent at Connellsville; and J. D. Balz, superintendent at Pittsburgh, having signified their intention of being present. Rev. J. L. Proudfit of Connellsville was to open the festivities with prayer. George W. Sturmer, grand president of the Veterans' association, was to deliver the address. W. H. Haines, general chairman of the affair, was to preside.

The Burgess of Somerset declared a (day) holiday and all business activities were suspended there on account of the outing.

Tax Revision
Bill Is Placed
Before House

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The administration tax revision bill was laid before the House of Representatives today after the Republican membership of the body, in conference, had changed it so as to make repeal of the excess profits tax and the income surtax rates in excess of 32 percent effective next January 1 instead of last January 1.

This change on the basis of previous treasury estimates would result in the corporations and individuals with large incomes, paying to the government in the next calendar year something like $200,000,000 more than they would have paid had the administration plan of making the repeal effective prevailed.

Total reductions for this fiscal year under the bill as revised were estimated by some minority members of the House and Senate committee at $200,000,000 as against approximately $500,000,000 planned by the committee and the total tax yield at about $3,200,000,000.

As a result of the changes made by the Republican conference, majority committee members further amended the bill before its presentation to the House so as to make the corporation income tax 12 1/2 percent and January 1 instead of 15 1/2 percent as originally planned and the manufacturers' tax on cereal beverages six cents per gallon instead of 12 cents. Under plans adopted by the party conference the bill will be taken up in the House at 11 A. M. Wednesday under a special rule calling for a final vote at 3 P. M. Saturday.

Two days will be given over to general debate and two days to consideration of amendment under the five minute rule amendments of committee members given preference.

Democratic members of the House plan to hold a caucus this afternoon to decide upon a course of action while the measure is under consideration. They also expected to determine whether Democratic "liberals" and "moderates" shall file a minority report. Meanwhile the full committee will meet to pass finally upon the bill but this is expected to be a mere formality.

Approved at Somerset.

Frank Shepps of Rockwood, and Grace Spicer, Baltimore, and Edwin D. Snyder and Maude R. Hechler, both of Rockwood, were granted marriage licenses in Somerset.

Teacher's Nose

By Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—Morris Tallman, golf instructor at the White Marsh Valley Country club, was operated yesterday to remove splinters of bone from a broken nose as the result of a blow from a fair pupil's mashie stick. Tallman was teaching the young woman to operate the sticks. She swung hard, she missed the ball, whirled all the way round by the force she put into the shot and cracked her instructor on the nose.

Too Young to Be Contented Married,
Man Goes to War

Too young to be contented with married life was the plea of Charles E. Frankfort of Cumberland, Md., when he left his wife, Blanche Marie, of Connellsville, the wife testified before the master in her suit for a divorce, which was granted today in Uniontown on the grounds of desertion. Later, after he had gone to war, the young husband wrote home that he intended to return to the fireline. He came back from France, all right, the wife testified, but instead of coming to her he went to the home of his parents. They were married at Cumberland October 17, 1917.

Katharine Gordon of Connellsville was granted freedom from Edgar Gordon, address unknown, desertion being alleged. They were married at Cumberland August 7, 1906. The husband left March 2, 1918. He gave no intimation of his intentions, the wife testified before the master. She said he was accompanied by one Mrs. Fitzgerald.

Gladys Marion Ross of South Brownsville was granted a divorce from Horace Raymond Ross, also on the grounds of desertion.

MUST BE VACCINATED

County Superintendent Call, Attention

County Superintendent of Schools John S. Carroll calls attention to the fact that it is absolutely necessary and essential for parents to see that children are vaccinated before they attempt to enter school this fall season. "That matter must be attended to at once if no already attended to," Mr. Carroll said. "We have called attention to it repeatedly but it appears as if some parents have been rather indifferent."

Many teachers in the rural schools have already reported for the opening of the school season. Others plan arrival by the early part of next week. The teacher shortage question will not be as much of a subject this season as past school officials say. They base this belief on the fact that by reason of unemployment in clerical lines the teachers are more prone to accept teaching positions.

ERIE SHOPMEN AT MARION VOTE AGAINST OPEN SHOP; COMPANY WILL INSIST ON IT

By Associated Press.
MARION, O., Aug. 16.—Consideration of the offer of the Railway Service company, which yesterday took over the Erie railroad shops here, to give employment to shopmen formerly employed by the Erie company was given at a meeting of members of local shop crafts last night. No official announcement was issued but members said it was decided by all present, numbering about 100, not to work for the new company except under union rules which formerly prevailed.

The service company is taking over the shops under contract to do the repair work announced yesterday. The shops would be run like similar large manufacturing plants at Marion, most of which are operated on the open shop principle.

T. A. Clawson, president of the machinists' union, said today that since trouble arose more than a week ago, when the Erie discontinued overtime for Sunday work and resumed the 10-hour day, about 350 men had been brought here to work in the shops. They have been persuaded to leave by peaceful means and there will be no violence by union men, he said. Guards who took up positions around the shops building last night continued on patrol today, while additional members of the railroad police force have arrived in Marion.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 16.—Roundhouse employees at Kent, who would not obey Erie railroad rules as to physical examination and Sunday work without overtime pay have been dismissed and their places filled with new men, who are being protected against picketers. It was announced at Erie regional headquarters today.

An order signed by W. A. Baldwin, regional manager, has been posted at Kent. It says in part:

This is to advise that the company intends to get the necessary service at Kent and a further indication of disorder and interference with men hired to fill vacancies, and disregard of instructions of the company will be followed by necessary steps to preserve order and insure the operation of the shops under arrangements that may be hereafter desirable for those men who are established in the community, many of whom own their own homes."

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Prime Minister Lloyd George, speaking in the house of commons today concerning the peace of the Allied Supreme council, declared that in many respects it was the most important since the declaration of peace. Questions were before it, he said, which meant the solidarity of the Entente.

The unity of the Allies, Mr. Lloyd George asserted, was a guarantee for the peace of Europe and it was a matter of great gratification that at the end of the meeting a resolution was passed not merely that the alliance be continued but declaring that the spirit of the alliance was as strong as ever.

The question of giving the greatest anxiety, the prime minister continued, was that of Upper Silesia, which, he said, was one of the most dangerous and delicate yet raised.

BRITAIN NOT RECOGNIZED

By Associated Press.
DUBLIN, Aug. 16.—In opening the Dail Eireann at its first public session here today Eamon de Valera, the republican leader, reiterated Ireland's claim for separation from Great Britain and declared the only government the people will recognize is the Irish republican parliament.

There were 160 members present including those released from prison to permit attending the session.

The great audience crowded the gallery floor as Mr. De Valera led the members to their chairs.

Dublin was decorated, as was Belfast and instead of squadrons of cavalry a division of infantry and innumerable police, the only men on the streets were traffic officers. They did not even appear in the vicinity of the Mansion House where the parliament met.

The crowds which stood for hours in the rain were kept in order by republican volunteers who also acted as ushers to members of parliament and those holding tickets of admission. Most members of the parliament were unknown to the crowd which reserved its cheer for recognized members.

MISS ELEANOR GOEDSMITH TO WED JULIAN ROSENBAUM

One of the most interesting of the summer weddings is that of Miss Eleanor Grant Goldsmith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Goldsmith of East Green street and Julian Rosenbaum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rosenbaum of Uniontown. The ceremony will be solemnized tonight at 7 o'clock at the Summit hotel, and will be followed by a charmingly appointed dinner, at which covers for seventy-five, including only the relatives of the two families, will be laid. A reception and dance, to which the younger set of Connelleville, Uniontown and other out of town points have been invited, will follow. Miss Goldsmith will be attended by her aunt, Mrs. Samuel R. Goldsmith, as matron of honor, and Miss Elizabeth Gerwig of Pittsburg, Miss Anna Kennell of this city, and Miss Sarah Rosenbaum of Uniontown, as bridesmaids. Karl Rosenbaum of Uniontown will be his brother's best man. The witnesses are Gordon Bear of Johnstown; Lawrence Hirsch and Frank D. Spitzer, Jr., of Uniontown.

Mrs. Samuel R. Goldsmith was hostess at the rehearsal dinner last evening at 7 o'clock at her home in South Pittsburg street. Covers for twenty-one were laid. The dinner was marked by unusually charming appointments. A color scheme of yellow and white was effectively carried out. Centering the table was a large hampered brass bowl of goldrod, surrounded with hampered brass candle sticks, holding yellow candles, adorned with bows of yellow ribbon. The place cards were miniature brides, while the favors were yellow and white baskets filled with nuts and candy and also bachelor's button bouquets for the men. The guest list included members of the bride party and Miss Anna Tumpson of New York, Miss Rosalie Hirsch of Johnstown, South Africa, and Mrs. Charles Fries of Chicago.

THE NEW LIGHT-SIX COUPE-ROADSTER, while it holds a strong appeal for any prospective user, is particularly suited to the requirements of the doctor, the salesman, the field engineer or any other man whose professional or business duties demand a light-weight, economically-operated car for all-season use.

In reliability it is traditionally Studebaker. And the measure of public appreciation of this and other Studebaker models is indicated by the fact that Studebaker (with the exception of one manufacturer of a well known and very low priced car) led the world, during the first six months of 1921, in the number of automobiles produced and sold.

Camels are made for Men who Think for Themselves

Such folks know real quality—and DEMAND it.

They prefer Camels because Camels give them the smoothest, mellowest smoke they can buy—because they love the mild, rich flavor of choicest tobaccos, perfectly blended—and because Camels leave NO CIGARETTE AFTERTASTE.

Like every man who does his own thinking, you want fine tobacco in your cigarettes. You'll find it in Camels.

And, mind you, no flashy package just for show. No extra wrappers! No costly frills! These things don't improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons.

BUT QUALITY! Listen! That's CAMELS!

TRIPLE PLAY, UNASSISTED, FEAT OF TORNADO PLAYER IN GAME AT DAVIDSON FIELD

Center Fielder Tom Peasecky
Gives Fly, Touches Base,
Tags Runner.

KLAIRDALE MAN BEANED

A triple play, unassisted, was the feat performed last evening at Davidson field by Center Fielder Tom Peasecky of the Tornadoes in a game with the Poplar Grove Klairdales. First and second bases were occupied in the sixth inning when Peasecky, who was playing close in, captured a short fly, just back of second. He touched second and then tagged the runner from first.

The Tornadoes won, scoring three runs in the first inning and one in the sixth, to a lone tally for the Klairdales in the seventh. King pitched a good game for the Tornadoes, holding his opponents to three hits and striking out 10 batters.

Huston, right fielder for the Klairdales, was struck on the head by a pitched ball but continued to play.

Mangese Ready To Finish Series, Manager Declares

In reply to the lengthy letter from the Mount Braddock team, recently published in these columns, handling a rap to the Dunbar team, Dunbar White, manager of the American Mangese team, states that he is ready any time to finish the series with the Mount Braddock team. White states that the reason the final game of the series has not been played was that Mount Braddock asked for an extension of time, stating that his catcher was disabled with an injured finger.

White adds that when the games were first arranged that the series was to be played for a side bet of $500 but that when they were ready to take the field and asked where the Mount Braddock bank roll was, so that the Dunbar backers could cover it, it turned out to be "concocted money only." As to calling the American Mangese team the "Dunbar-Trotter" team, White wants to inquire if his team is the only one that uses so-called outside players. The only player not a regular man on the Dunbar team, White says, was Sammy Labak, who plays with Dunbar through the week, but is tied up with the Connelville Independents on Saturdays or any time this team is scheduled to play. "Dunbar is anxious to finish the series with Mount Braddock any time the team is ready and if Mount Braddock is so confident that they can defeat Dunbar, let them come through with some money that they claim they are anxious to get and make the game interesting," the manager adds.

Evangelicals Come From Behind, Defeat Methodist Episcopal

The Methodist Episcopal team was defeated last night by the Evangelicals at Fayette field, 4-3. The Evangelicals came up to their last bats with the score 3-1 in favor of the Methodists. They managed to get the bases full and then some one on the Methodist Episcopal team made a wild throw and they kept on making wild throws until all three men scored. The defeat of the Methodists gives the United Presbyterians full possession of first place.

The next game in the league will be played tonight at Fayette field when the fast United Presbyterian team will meet the first Presbyterians.

Baseball Chatter

The Tornadoes and Layton will play Thursday afternoon at Fayette field. The game will start at 4 o'clock.

The Cokers and the Church League All-Stars play tomorrow at Fayette field.

While the Pirates rested yesterday their lead was increased to 50 points.

FANS WANT TO SEE REMAINDER OF GAMES PLAYED

Frank A. Tarr, manager of the Young Valley Independents, was in Connelville last evening and had a long and friendly chat on the street with Manager Shella Hauser and Chas. Ridge of the Connelville team and with fans generally in the group surrounding him. Many of the features of the game at Fayette field Saturday were discussed and re-discussed.

Connelville fans, the vast majority of whom are for clean baseball, are hopeful that the remaining games between Young Valley and the Cokers will be played off as scheduled and at the places scheduled. Young Valley has two games yet at Fayette field and the fans are anxious to see them played there. The great crowd which jammed into Fayette field Saturday was evidence there is interest in the contest between the league leaders and the locals.

Expressions heard from those who have been guiding the destinies of the league team, the players and the fans generally are that the Dawson team need fear no exhibition of unfriendly spirit—nothing more than the natural desire to see the home team win. Furthermore, it is the general view that outside of a few radicals the rush of spectators onto the field Saturday was only through curiosity. This, it is pointed out, will occur at any time, say, for instance, in the case of a fight that might start on the side lines or elsewhere, or any unusual happening. It seems to be human nature for the curious to start a rush for the scene. That is just the way it was Saturday, with the exception of the ones off a few of the more hot temper.

"Let's go," is the general desire of the fans, as heard on the street and elsewhere the situation is discussed. Wilkey will be here for its scheduled game Saturday.

by the defeat of New York by Philadelphia. George Gibson's team is now five full games ahead of the McGrawites.

Greenburg won over Uniontown yesterday, 12-1, in a heavily played game in the West Penn league.

Snook defeated New Salem last evening, 4-1, in a nine-inning game.

A year ago today Ray Chapman, shortstop for the Cleveland Americans, was hit on the head by a ball thrown by Pitcher Carl Mays of the New York Yankees and died the following day.

Youngstown and Mount Braddock played a 2-2 tie last evening at Mount Braddock. Two hits were made by each side, Kamoneky pitching for Mount Braddock and Thorpe for Youngstown.

The Lutherans and the Baptists attempted to play off a postponed game of the Church league scheduled at Trotter last evening, but it ended in a 3-1 tie, being called on account of darkness.

Diamond Squibs

"Swat the fly" is the motto of other players besides Babe Ruth.

Don Molinas has a new second baseman answering to the name of Yoda.

Barrett, the young shortstop for the Athletics, looks like a good ball player.

Manager Jawa Evans sometimes leaves the field during playing hours—by request.

Report has it that the New Orleans club will ship Elmer Ave Lincoln Bailey back to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Reports circulated that the Florida State league might close its season earlier than scheduled time are denied.

Babe Ruth would be the greatest single attraction in baseball if he wasn't the greatest four-base attraction.

Earl Sherry is starting to crown the ball, and is rising so quickly that he soon will be numbered among the great.

Scott Perry jumps again. Thus far this season he has played with the Athletics and two other semi-pro teams.

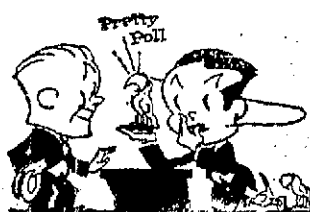

Hitchcock who admit that the ball is lively have probably been in there when Babe Ruth was exercising his wrists.

Before the season is over it is not unlikely that the little choo-choo of sales will come streaming up the pipe just as if nothing had happened between this year and last.

Pedding R. Yost, for 20 years football coach of the University of Michigan, has been appointed director of intercollegiate athletics.

Doc Harriott, who formerly served as scout and trainer for the New York Yankees and Giants, has been engaged by Connie Mack to dig up some talent for the Athletics.

The Mystery of the Cook's Pet Parrot

A FUNNY paper recently, SLIPPED ME a good laugh. WITH A wheeze about. A FAMOUS ventriloquist. AND WHY he had quit. THE VAUDEVILLE stage. IT SAID he discovered. HE COULD make more jack. SELLING WOODEN parrots. SO WHEN I got home. I PASSED the joke. TO OUR cook, who owns. BOTH A speechless parrot. AND A sense of humor. BUT SHE muffed it. BECAUSE SHE didn't know. WHAT A ventriloquist was. SO I had to explain it. AND ON the way out. I BLEW just a whiff. OF CIGARETTE smoke. AT HER amusing old. FOOL OF a parrot. WHICH NEVER talks. AND I said, "Foll. HOW D'YOU like it?" AND TO this day. IT'S GOT me guessing. WHETHER IT was cook. OR THE blamed bird. WHICH SQUAWKED back. "THEY SATISFY."

CHESTERFIELDS speak for themselves. They let you know you're smoking. They "satisfy" and yet, they're mild. An impossible combination, you say? Sure—everywhere but in Chesterfields. The blend does it, and the blend can't be copied.

ATLANTIC Polarine

for Your Ford Motor

Ford motors run noticeably smoother, develop more power—live longer—with this extraordinary year-round motor lubricant, Atlantic Polarine.

It gets to the bearings, quiets the valve mechanism, and keeps the cylinders lubricated and the pistons sealed. The pressure and impact from the power impulses can't force it from the friction surfaces.

Atlantic Polarine has the widest effective temperature range of any motor oil made. No other oil has its peculiar refinement and firm-bodied stability. Yet it has the free-flowing mobility of lighter oil—without its disadvantages.

Atlantic Polarine is RIGHT for Ford Motors.

ATLANTIC MOTOR OIL

Keeps Upkeep Down

The Ford Manual says—
"The oil should have sufficient body so that the pressure between the two bearing surfaces will not force the oil out and allow the metal to come in actual contact. Heavy and inferior oils have a tendency to carbonize quickly, forming a film on the piston rings, the valves and the bearings."

"I suppose that's the plan," Cherry said, lifelessly. "He says he'll want me to join him about the middle of August."

"Oh, help!" Alix said, disgustedly. "Cherry was silent a few minutes, and Peter smoked with his eyes on the fire."

"If I see my money I'll have enough to live on, won't I, Peter?"

"You'll have about forty thousand dollars—yes, at five per cent you could live on that. Especially if you lived here in the valley," Peter answered, after some thought.

"Then I want you to know," Cherry went on quietly, with sudden scintillations in her cheeks, "that I'm going to tell Martin I think we have tried it long enough."

Peter looked gravely at her, soberly nodded, and resumed his study of the fire. But Alix spoke in brisk protest.

"Tried it! You mean tried marriage? But one doesn't try marriage! It's a fact. It's like the color of your eyes."

"Alix," the little sister pleaded earnestly, "you don't know what it is—you don't know what it is! Always meeting people I don't like; always living in places I hate; always feeling that my own self is being snubbed and lost and shunned; always hearing the most complaining and criticizing people—"

Peter interrupted seriously: "I'll go this far, Cherry: Lloyd married you too young."

"Oh, far too young!" she agreed quickly. "The thing I—can't think of," she said, "is how young I was—only a little girl. I knew nothing; I wasn't ready to be anybody's wife!"

Something in the poignant sorrow of her tone went straight to their hearts, and for the first time Peter had an idea of the real suffering she had borne.

"If I had a child, even, or if Martin needed me," Cherry said, "then it might be different. But I'm only a burden to him—"

"His letter doesn't sound as if he thought of you as a burden," Alix suggested mildly.

"Ah, well, the minute I leave him he has a different tone," Cherry explained, and Peter said, with a glance almost of surprise at his wife:

"It's an awfully difficult position for a woman of any pride, dear."

Alix, hesitating to adjust the fire, as she was constantly tempted to do, met his look and laid a soot-streaked hand on his knee.

"Toto, dearest, of course it is! But—"

And Alix looked doubtfully from one to the other, "but divorce is a hateful thing," she added, shuddering her head. "It's never seems to me justifiable."

"Divorce is an institution," Peter said. "You may not like it any more than you like prisons or madhouses; it has its uses."

"People get divorces every day," Cherry added. "Just—divorce better than living along in marriage—without love!"

"Oh, love!" Alix said scornfully. "Love is just another name for passion and selfishness and hatred, half the time!"

"You can say that, because yours is one of the happy marriages," Cherry said. "It might be very different—"

if Peter weren't Peter!"

As she said his name she sent him her smiling smile; her blue eyes shone with affection, and the exquisite curve of her mouth deepened. Peter smiled back, and looked away in a little confusion.

"I can't imagine the circumstances under which I should love you and Peter," Alix summarized it triumphantly.

"And Martin?" Peter asked.

"Ah! well, I didn't marry Martin!" his wife reminded him quickly. "I didn't promise to love and honor Martin in sickness and health; for riches, for power, for better, for worse—"

Cherry interrupted herself, in her boyish way: "those are terrible words, you know. And a promise is a promise!"

"And even for infidelity you don't believe people ought to separate?" Cherry asked.

"Nonsense!" Peter said.

"But you said—that Martin never—"

"No, I'm not speaking of Martin now."

"Well, wouldn't that come under 'worse'?" Alix asked.

"But, my child," Peter expostulated mildly, "my dear, enlightened wife—there is such a thing as a soul—a mind—a personality. To be tied to a well-to-do, congenial influence day after day is living death! It is worse than any bodily discomfort!"

"I don't see it," Alix persisted. "I think there's a lot of nonsense talked about the family atmosphere—but it seems to me that if you have a home and meals and books and friends and the country to walk in, you—"

"Oh, heavens, Alix, you don't know what you're talking about!" Cherry interrupted her impatiently. "Sometimes I think our marriage is as queer as my own."

Nothing more was said for several days upon the subject of a possible divorce. One afternoon Peter crossed the porch, tired and hot, and found the white apparition, deserted. He dropped into a chair, and was still breathless from the rapid climb up-hill, when stray notes from the piano reached his ears; a chord, a carefully

Then slowly, but with dainty accuracy and even feeling, Cherry began to play a strange little study of Schumann. Peter knew it was Cherry's business. Alix's touch was always firm and sure; more than that, he himself had played this same bit no longer ago than last night, and he remembered now that Cherry had asked him just what it was.

He experienced a sudden and pleasing emotion; he did not stop to analyze it. But he had been ruffled in spirit a moment before; Alix had known he was to come on this truth and had not met him with the ear; and while he heavily again, and he knew that he must stop the unavailing game now.

But he had not reckoned on Cherry. She twisted to her chair, and he heard a child's long, happy sigh.

"Oh, so am I tired, too!" she breathed, reluctantly. "I hate to leave it—but I've been almost asleep for half an hour! You can have all the spotlight there is, Peter!" Her white figure flattered toward the door.

"Good night!" she said, dropping her little head to shake a yawn. A moment later he heard her laughing with Alix.

"You fool—you fool—you fool!" Peter said to himself, and he felt an emotion like shame, a little real compunction that he could so utterly misread her innocence. He felt it not only wrong in him, but somehow staining and hurtful to her.

CHAPTER XII.

Again Peter reckoned without Cherry. It was only the day after, when he was entering the Palace court for his lunch, that he experienced a sudden and violent emotion. His thoughts were, at the moment, far from Cherry, and he fancied himself in a hurry. But every other feeling but excitement was obliterated at the sight of a slender, girlishly made woman, in a pongee gown, and a limp brown hat covered with poppies, waiting in the lounge.

Peter went toward her, and the color rushed into Cherry's face. It was the first time she had actually recognized him, and he had a special place of the eye in the history of their lives.

The surprise of it kept them laughing, hands clasped, for a minute; then Cherry said:

"I was to lunch here with Mary Cameron. But she's full twenty minutes late! You hate her, don't you?" she added, looking up from under her poppies at Peter.

"I don't like her," he admitted, with a boy's grimace.

"Then suppose we don't lunch here?" Cherry suggested, innocently. Peter laughed joyously, and tucking her little gloved hand under his arm, led her away. They went to Solaris, and had a window table, and nodded, as at his heart that he had not analyzed, if indeed it could be analyzed. Now suddenly he did not want the beauty and gleam and charm of that feeling coaxed. His heart began to beat heavily again, and he knew that he must stop the unavailing game now.

they discussed their lunch, at half a dozen friends who chanced to be lunching there, too.

She had said that she wanted to tell him "all about it," and Peter, with quick knowledge that she meant the unhappiness of her marriage, nodded a grave permission.

"I've made a failure of it," Cherry said, mildly. "I know I ought to struggle on, but I can't. I have no individuality. Peter, I have no personality! As for my dignity—my pride—"

Her face was scarlet, and for a moment she stopped speaking.

"Just tell me an alternative!" she said, after a while. "It can't be that there is no other life for me than going back. Peter, I'm only twenty-four!"

"I know you are," he said, with a brief nod.

"Why, every one has some alternative," Cherry pleaded. "It can't be that marriage is the only—the only irrevocable thing. If you had a partner that you couldn't go on with, you could come to some agreement!"

"You don't love him?" Peter said.

"I don't hate him," she answered quickly. "Indeed I don't. And it isn't just the place and the life, Peter—I could be happy in two rooms—some where—anywhere. But not—with him. Oh, Peter, if I hadn't done it!"

Her beauty, as she pushed her plate aside and leaned toward him, was as quick as lightning. A lighted match half-raised to a fresh cigarette, but the match down suddenly and looked thoughtfully at the cigarette, and laid that down, too, without the faintest consciousness of what he was doing.

Rolling Up the Shirt Sleeves in Theory and Practice—Medical Man Gives Some Little Known Facts Which May Be of Value to the Average Person Who Must Endure Hot Weather—The Active Function and the Digestive Function.

Some little known facts, the possession of which is of value to the average person who must endure hot weather, are called to public attention by the medical correspondent of The Union Times, for instance, it is not known by the majority of people that the body tends to swell in hot weather, just as the skin does. A knowledge of this fact is of importance to those who intend to wear hats or tight clothing when it is unusually warm, according to the physician, for, forewarned with this knowledge, they can avoid these contractions.

The physician says that two functions of the body are always to be discerned and differentiated, the active function and the digestive function. The active man is using his brain and his muscles; the digestive man is using his stomach, liver and their internal organs. This is simple enough. What is less simple, or at least less easy for the layman to grasp, is that the nervous system plays a deciding part in both phases.

And the average man, the doctor suggests, why, at certain moments of his life, he has squared his shoulders and doubled his fists. He will answer: "Of fight, of course." And the emphasis on the words "of course" will often reveal his idea, that the question is as unnecessary as the reply is obvious. But, says the physician, there is something obvious about it, as is seen when we reflect that when the shoulders are squared and the fists doubled the heart beats quicker and the blood is excited of blood. A man and sudden change has swept over every cell in the body in response to what? To the sight of an enemy. That is to say to an impression or sensation reaching the eyes—perhaps the ears.

The fact emerges—it is sensation, which excites the nervous system, the outside world which excites that a particular man shall be active or digestive.

Feeling the Draught. The physician takes for an example the stimulus of cold. On a cold day the skin receives a kind of bombardment of what he calls "small calls to action," which act on the nerves of this structure and whip them to action. As a result, the small blood vessels of the body are closed, digestive processes are stayed, and the muscles are filled with blood. Thus in cold weather we feel active and are filled with energy.

Quickly moving air naturally cools a man faster than slowly moving air; and damp air is less cooling than dry because there is less evaporation.

Consequently, says the physician, on a hot day with still air, the amount of "cold stimuli" reaching a man's skin is greatly reduced. There are no calls for action of this sort, and the blood vessels tend to remain dilated and open. The blood stays in the body and the body is swollen.

But, we are reminded by the writer, at any time the arrival of food into the stomach is a call for blood for that organ, just as the approach of an enemy is a call for blood for the brain muscles. So in hot weather when food is eaten the already swollen body tends to swell more.

In patients with digestive troubles and heart troubles, the physician tells us, the result of this swelling in hot weather, after a full meal, may be most unpleasant. They feel their "breath short-circuited," they seem to have an oppression on their chests, they feel giddy. In some cases they may faint.

Stripped for Action. It is obvious then that during hot weather the middle-aged man whose nervous system, thanks to his sedentary life, is less well-balanced than it used to be must not in the light of his knowledge, available to him in the first place, be must do all that he can to give his skin a chance. He must play for stimulation, so to speak, in order to counteract the tendency of his blood to gather in his body.

He should take off his coat when he gets to his office and roll up his sleeves. He should open all the windows, but screen out the sunlight. The resulting currents of air playing on his bare arms will give him a real

SHE FINALLY CAME TO NERV-WORTH FOR RESULTS

Like Hundreds of Others Found It Did the Work Where Other Remedies Failed.

Mrs. F. J. Cleaver of 321 1/2 Brady St., Duquesne, Pa., told a Nerv-Worth representative in an interview the other day how she tried for a long time to get relief from stomach and nervous troubles, but met with no success until she found Nerv-Worth. She by valuable degree of stimulation. A wet towel with which the bare arms may be rubbed occasionally is not a bad idea.

Secondly, he must not eat heavily during the day. It is his habit, that comes next, for the greater the bulk the more the tendency to draw blood into the body.

Finally, exercise should be postponed till evening. It should not be abandoned on any account, for the secret of good health is good exercise.

SEEKS $500,000 ON OLD PAPER

Restaurant Keeper Brings Suit Against New York Bank.

ASKS DIVIDENDS ON STOCK

Shares Issued to Great-Grandfather Century Ago are Discovered in Copy of Spenser's "Fable Queen" by Genealogist Delving into Behavior of Somebody's Ancestors—Bank Has Undergone Many Changes in Name and Ownership.

A scrap of paper lay unknown to five generations of custodians between the pages of a faded old copy of Spenser's "Fable Queen." A genealogist delving into the behavior of somebody's ancestors came upon the neglected relic, and found it had been gathering interest for nearly a hundred years. The surprised heir to the bonanza, a restaurant keeper of moderate means, values the scrap at more than $500,000. He has so far been supported in his claim to the document by the courts.

The reported fortune is embodied in a certificate of sixty-seven shares of stock in the Mechanics Bank of New York, left by Thomas Williams, who died in New York in 1822. Alfred Watkins Seymour, a small restaurant keeper of Seattle, Wash., has to date established his claim in the local courts as the sole heir to the stock, a decision handed down by Justice Robert F. Wagner, of the Supreme court, adding strength to the validity of the document.

Demanding Unpaid Dividends. Seymour, through his attorney, Ethel N. Zolne, asserted that the stock at the time of his great-grandfather's death, had a par value of $100 a share and a market value of about $200, or about $18,500 for the sixty-seven shares. The stock of the Mechanics Bank, and the National Bank of the City of New York, which he asserts is merely the alter ego of the original Mechanics Bank, is selling today between $237 and $285 a share.

Seymour now demands not only that the stock be honored by the present bank, but also the unpaid dividends since 1822, which he says will bring the total value of the certificate up to more than half a million dollars. Seymour obtained possession of the prized piece of paper in 1918, through a strange series of circumstances. He had dropped out of sight soon after the death of his great-grandfather. It was accidentally discovered by the genealogist in the household of a family in Troy, N. Y., where Seymour had had a sister and in aunt. His sister died some time ago.

The genealogist who made the discovery, according to Mr. Zolne, Seymour's attorney, is H. S. Egan, of 130 West 129th Street, New York. It appears, says he, that another family's history when he was referred to Dr. William Pierce Seymour, of Troy, for information in connection with his quest. It was while going through the doctor's papers and belongings that the genealogist came upon the certificate of stock in an old copy of Spenser's work. It developed that Mrs. Seymour, the wife of the physician, was a direct descendant of Thomas Williams. Alfred Watkins Seymour is her son.

No Accounting Ever Made. The certificate is dated August 10, 1822, according to Seymour's attorney and was assigned at that time to Archibald Cornell of this city, as sole executor of Williams' estate. It is claimed that no accounting was ever filed by Cornell of these shares of stock in the Mechanics Bank, and that he died on January 26, 1832, in Queens, without having administered this asset of the Williams estate.

The document then dropped out of sight until its discovery in 1918. In the meantime, however, the complaint sets forth, the Mechanics Bank had gone through numerous mergers and reorganizations, with consequent changes of name.

Seymour is confident that the bank will soon be ordered to give him an accounting of the hundreds of dividends that have been piling up these hundred years and that he will obtain the latest issues of stock to the value of his certificate.

Mr. Seymour is sixty-five years old and has a wife and family.

"Yes," replied Mr. Quaxius. "My objection to the pets around the house is that most of them are vocalists."

SUFFERED SEVEN LONG YEARS

Finally Relieved by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ravenwood, W. Va.—"For seven long years I suffered from a female trouble and inflammation so that I was not able to do my housework. I consulted several doctors but none seemed to give me relief. I read in a paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound so I decided to try it, and before the first bottle was gone I

I continued using it until I had taken eight bottles. Now I am very well and can do my own housework. I can gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to suffering women."—Mrs. BERTHA LIEKING, R. F. D., Ravenwood, W. Va. The ordinary day of most housewives is a ceaseless treadmill of washing, cooking, cleaning, and ironing, and dusting and caring for little ones. How much harder the task when some derangement of the system causes headaches, backaches, bearing-down pains and nervousness. Every such woman should profit by Mrs. Lieking's experience. Remember that, for over forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been restoring health.

WHY SUFFER SO?

Why suffer from a bad back, from sharp, shooting twinges, from headaches, from nervousness and dizziness, from a kidney trouble? People recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor! Could you ask for stronger proof of merit?

Mrs. M. Thomas, 201 North Seventh street, Connelville, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been used with very good results in our family. I, myself, have found them an excellent remedy for backaches and kidney irregularities. At times my back got lame and sore and pained in a dull, nagging way. Often it became so bad I could not get down with the pain and then I would suffer from severe headaches and dizziness. My system would be entirely out of order and I would feel miserable. At such times I always used Doan's Kidney Pills and in a short time all the trouble would disappear. I get Doan's at Hornum's Drug Store and I keep them on hand all the time."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the name that Mrs. Thomas had. Postmaster: Send 10c, please, for a free trial of Doan's Kidney Pills. Write to J. C. Doan, Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

WISDOM OF TAKING "DAY OFF"

Leisure Time, That Has Been Earned, Means Better Health and Better Work Afterward.

"There is nothing that clears the cobwebs so effectively out of one's brain as a day off," the Young Old Philosopher was saying. "Just as we plan our work, we should plan our play; only, most of us, in the chance of the times, forget that to loaf occasionally is as necessary as to denudge; and we continue to-day with our brains."

"I know in my own case how difficult it is for me to make up my mind, deliberately and unhesitatingly, that I require, now and then, a morning away from my desk."

"So if the day off means so much to us, mentally and physically, why are we afraid to take it when the opportunity arrives? I like nothing better than to see, in the big town or in a quiet spot on some city morning, the great army of men hustling out in a motor car on some errand, while others struggle to drag their backs. They have earned their liberty, no doubt; let us hope so, at any rate, and they will be all the better tomorrow for those few hours of delightful sport and health-giving freedom."

"Too soon the curtain is rung down on this glowing world we live in and we enjoy. Partly it is our own fault. The green earth cries out to us to come and tread the borders of the countryside; instead we cling to the granite of the city, and pace desolate hallways—the more desolate because they are crowded with people we do not know. And all of them are hurrying—hurrying!"

"I wonder. And so, no doubt do they."—From the Outlook.

A Kindhearted Bluff. "Don't you think Reginald takes himself rather seriously?"

"No," replied Mrs. Cayenne. "Reginald knows he's no intellectual marvel. He is merely making a generous effort not to underplay his fond parlor."

Child Cured of Bowel Trouble. Child of Floyd Osborn, Notary Public of Duncannon, Va., was taken with bowel trouble. Mr. Osborn gave it Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy and it quickly recovered. In speaking of this remedy he says, "It is the best I ever used."—Advertisement.

Helping you get her ready for school

A STROLL through the store will show you many things that you'll need when you're ready to bundle that stalwart son or lovely daughter off to school. And you'll be pleased to find the majority of them marked in keeping with our August Clearance Sales prices.

First the little things.

PERHAPS the president of the school you've selected asked you to provide bed clothing for your children. We are ready with wool and cotton blankets, bed-spreads, sheets, pillow cases—everything. All attractive both in appearance and price.

Daughter will need to prepare herself with a sufficient stock of perfume, toilet water, face powder and those other dainty accoutrements of the dressing room table. Our toilet goods department will take care of that.

And both son and daughter will need pins and needles, thread and—most important of all, woven games to be sewn on all their linen.

Come in today and let us help relieve you of some of those worries of preparation.

Then suits and dresses

SCHOOL success is largely a matter of appearance. And where is the girl who will not bring the world to her feet with one of our new Fall Suits or dresses in her wardrobe?

You'll find the strictly tailored effect in vogue again but you'll be more interested in the new, fur-trimmed models—so trim and caressing are they. And the colors! Warm browns for the girl with dreamy eyes; smooth blues for eyes that sparkle. And the black that is so popular this season.

The Fall dresses and costumes will make your heart beat the little faster. Touches of color everywhere. Rich embroideries that will remind you of the robes of a mandarin. High necks, low necks—sleeves of every length—and the cleverest buttons!

Rest assured that the second floor holds many a surprise for you and daughter.

Mr. Swales can show you furs

TODAY and tomorrow Mr. Swales is in town. Which makes this the logical time to outfit daughter with her furs.

There's a coat of Hudson seal trimmed in beaver on display that would make her happy beyond measure. Another treasure is a skunk throw that carries with it all the polish and dignity of a foreign court.

Or if you prefer something less pretentious you have a collection of furs valued at over $160,000 to make your choice from.

And this will give you some idea of how much less furs cost in our August Sale. We're told that the Coney coat that cost $89.50 last season sells for $37.50 today, while the type of coat that cost $95 last year is now marked $67.25.

All of which is true because we bought the right goods at the right time and are passing the saving on to you.

We can't forget the boy

IMPOSSIBLE when there are so many articles here that a star half-back in the making will need at school.

First there are suits specially priced for August Clearance and fine to bang around school in. And topcoats very much reduced, fairly aching for some stalwart fellow to come along and walk away in them.

There are hats, also marked at Clearance prices, and many other articles that a fellow and his mother might be apt to forget—belt buckles, razors, cuff-links, shaving cream, talcum—everything a boy could need or desire.
